Council to Launch Public Input Process

The City Council will announce the launch of a public input process regarding economic development this Thursday, June 25, at 6 p.m. in the Council Chamber inside City Hall, 175 E. 2nd St.

This process is designed to engage the public by allowing citizens a chance to present projects for possible inclusion in a proposed Vision 2025 extension package. City Councilors will discuss:

- The basis for the Council's approach to the renewal
- The process and format for hearing community ideas and feedback for the extension of the Vision 2025 program
- Dates for public meetings

The launch will be televised live as part of the regular weekly Tulsa City Council meeting on TGOV, Tulsa Government Access Television, Cox Cable channel 24 and online at: TGOVonline.org. Questions and comments from the public will be welcome.
